

CEC READING LIBRARY • MIDDLE 1 • R1 ACCESS

The Invisible Man

18 Chapters

Day 1-18

W07-W12

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 1: The Stranger at the Inn

Henry arrived in a small village with his face completely covered. The villagers felt afraid because they did not know him. They saw a man who wore big sunglasses and a hat. Although the weather was warm, he also wore a scarf. People started to talk about the strange visitor. They wondered why he wanted to hide his face. Some children felt curious and followed him. Henry walked to an old house with its windows closed. He carried a big bag with its contents unknown. The village leader decided to visit him. He wanted to learn why Henry came to their home. Henry opened the door with his hands covered in gloves. He spoke quietly and said he needed a place to rest. The leader felt unsure but agreed to help. He told Henry the village was a safe place. Henry thanked him and closed the door again. The villagers continued to watch the house. They built stories about the man in their minds. ★

Life in the village changed a little that day.

THINK What did the villagers feel about Henry?

Chapter 2: A Room with Closed Curtains

Henry arrived in a small village one cold afternoon. He wore a big coat with his face completely covered by a scarf. The villagers felt afraid because they did not know him. They saw a man who looked very strange and mysterious. Although the weather was cold, his clothes seemed unusual. People started to talk about him when he went to the inn. The innkeeper was nervous because the man did not show his face. He asked for a room with the window tightly closed. Henry stayed inside his room most of the time. He only came out to buy food and other things. The children in the village were curious about him. They wanted to learn why he hid his face. Some people thought he might be dangerous. Others felt sorry for him although they were scared. Life in the quiet village changed after he came. ★ People built new stories about the strange visitor every day.

THINK Why was the innkeeper nervous?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 3: The Village Wonders

Henry arrived in a small village one cold afternoon. He came with his face completely covered by a thick scarf. The villagers felt afraid because they did not know him. They saw a man who was hiding his face from everyone. Although the weather was cold, his scarf seemed unusual. People started to talk about the strange visitor. They wondered why he wanted to hide his identity. Henry walked to the old inn to find a room. He carried a large bag with his clothes packed inside. The innkeeper was nervous when he saw the covered face. Henry spoke quietly because he did not want attention. He asked for a room with a window facing the street. The village children watched him from a safe distance. They were curious about the man with the hidden face. Life in the village continued, but everyone felt uneasy. Henry stayed in his room with the door locked most of the time. He only went out when it was very dark outside. ★ The villagers decided to watch him carefully for a few days.

THINK Why did people start to talk about Henry?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 4: A Student of Light

Henry was a scientist with a big secret. He worked in a small lab because he loved to learn about nature. Although his work was important, he felt afraid sometimes. He had discovered something beautiful but dangerous. He could not share his secret with anyone. His friends asked about his work when they visited. Henry smiled but changed the topic quickly. He built special machines to help with his research. The machines made soft sounds in the quiet lab. Henry traveled to the forest to find special plants. He needed the plants for an important experiment. One day, something strange happened in his lab. A blue light appeared suddenly from his machine. Henry was surprised but also very excited. He wrote everything in his secret notebook. The notebook that contained his big discovery was hidden. Henry knew his secret could help many people someday. However, he needed to wait until his work was safe. ★ He continued his research alone in the small lab.

THINK Why was Henry afraid sometimes?

Chapter 5: The Dangerous Project

Henry was a scientist who worked in a small lab. He had a big secret that he could not share. He felt lonely because he could not talk to his friends. Although he wanted to tell someone, he was afraid. His secret was about a special project he built. The project could help people travel to beautiful places. But it was also dangerous if used in the wrong way. Henry learned many things while working on his project. He worked hard every day when he was in his lab. Sometimes he felt sad, but he continued his work. He believed his project was important for the future. One day, he decided to show his work to his family. He wanted to explain everything to them clearly. They were surprised but also very proud of him. Henry was happy because he finally shared his secret. ★ He realized that some secrets are hard to keep alone.

THINK What was Henry's special project about?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 6: The Last Secret Discovery

Henry was a scientist with a big secret that he could not share. He worked in a small lab because he needed privacy. Although he loved his family, he never talked about his work. His project was about a new material that could become invisible. He discovered it when he was mixing chemicals one day. The material was beautiful but also very dangerous. Henry was afraid because the secret was too big for one person. He built a special box to keep the material safe. He traveled to the forest to test it alone. The tests were successful, which made him happy and worried. He learned that keeping a secret is very hard work. Sometimes he felt lonely although he knew it was necessary. His friends wondered why he was always busy. Henry smiled but never gave them the real answer. The secret changed his life in many small ways. He hoped one day he could tell someone the truth. ★ Until then, he was a scientist with a secret.

THINK What was Henry's project about?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 7: The Bold Experiment

Henry was a curious student who loved science. He often built small machines in his room because he wanted to learn new things. One day, he tried a bold experiment with light and mirrors. Although he was a little afraid, he continued his work carefully. After the experiment, something strange happened to his body. He looked at his hands, but he could not see them anymore. He became invisible after his bold experiment, but soon he felt completely alone. He could not talk to his friends or family because they could not see him. He walked around his house, but everyone was busy with their own lives. Henry realized that being invisible was not fun at all. It was actually very lonely and sometimes dangerous. He missed the beautiful days when he could play outside with others. He decided to find a way to become visible again. He worked hard in his room for many hours. Finally, he found a solution and returned to his normal life. ★ He learned that being different is not always better.

THINK What did Henry look at after the experiment?

Chapter 8: Invisible in London

Henry was a curious student who loved science. He often did experiments in his small room after school. One day, he tried a bold experiment with light. He wanted to build a special machine because he loved new ideas. The machine made a strange sound, and suddenly Henry disappeared. He became invisible after the experiment, but he felt afraid. Although he could move without being seen, he felt completely alone. He could not talk to his friends or family. Henry realized that being invisible was not fun. It was a dangerous situation that made him sad. He missed the beautiful days when people could see him. He decided to find a way to become visible again. Henry worked hard because he wanted his normal life back. He learned that some dreams can have bad results. ★ Now he understands that being different is sometimes hard.

THINK What did Henry do after he became invisible?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 9: The Hunt for a Cure

Henry was a student who loved science. He wanted to build something amazing for his school project. He worked on a bold experiment in his small room. He mixed many things because he had a big idea. He felt excited although his family was worried. Suddenly, something strange happened after he finished. Henry looked at his hands and they were gone. He became invisible after his experiment. He could walk around without anyone seeing him. This seemed fun at first. He could travel to many places easily. He could learn secrets by listening quietly. But soon he felt completely alone. No one could talk to him or see his face. He was afraid because he missed his friends. He wanted to be a normal boy again. He realized that being invisible was dangerous. He decided to find a way to become visible. ★ It was a difficult journey that changed his life.

THINK What could Henry do while invisible?

Chapter 10: Lonely in a Crowd

Henry moved to a new city with his family last summer. He started at a big middle school that had many students. Although he saw people every day, he felt very alone in the large building. He missed his old friends who lived far away now. Henry tried to join a soccer club because he wanted to make new friends. He practiced with the team after school three times a week. The other players were friendly, but Henry still felt separate from the group. He smiled and talked, but inside he was quiet and sad. One day, the team traveled to another school for a game. Henry scored a goal that helped his team win the match. After the game, his teammates suddenly cheered for him loudly. They lifted him up and called him a hero because he played so well. Henry finally felt like he belonged with the people around him. He learned that friendship can build slowly over time. Now he feels happy when he goes to school each morning. ★ He still remembers the day that changed everything for him.

THINK Why did Henry feel alone?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 11: No One Sees Him

Henry was a boy who loved to build things with his hands. He often felt happy when he worked on his projects alone. However, he started to feel different after his family moved to a new town. The new school was big and full of students. Henry tried to talk to other kids because he wanted to make friends. Although he sat with many people at lunch, he felt alone. Nobody seemed to notice him or ask about his day. He walked home slowly after school every day. He thought about his old friends that he missed a lot. Henry felt alone even in a big crowd because nobody talked to him. He wished someone would see him and say hello. One day, he decided to join the art club. He hoped to meet people who liked drawing. This was a good idea that made him feel better. ★ He learned that sharing his hobby could help.

THINK Where did Henry feel alone?

Chapter 12: Nobody Could See Him Anymore

Henry was a boy who loved to build things with his hands. He often felt happy when he worked on his projects alone. However, he sometimes felt alone even in a big crowd at school. This feeling was strange because many people were around him. He walked through the busy hallways every morning. Students talked and laughed with their friends all around him. Henry wanted to join them, but he felt afraid. He thought nobody noticed him or his interesting ideas. This made him sad although the sun was shining brightly outside. He remembered a time when he traveled with his family. They visited a beautiful beach that was full of people. Henry felt invisible there too because his parents were busy. He decided to learn how to make new friends this year. He will try to talk to someone in his science class. Henry hopes to find one person who understands him. He wants to share his stories and listen to theirs. ★ Maybe then he won't feel so alone in a crowd.

THINK What did Henry want to do at school?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 13: The Tramp and the Notebooks

Henry was a good student who always helped his friends. He shared his lunch and never told lies. His teacher gave him a special job because she trusted him. Henry had to watch the class when she was away. At first, he was fair and kind to everyone. He felt happy to help his teacher. But soon, Henry started to change. He told his friends to be quiet, although they were not loud. He gave extra homework to students he did not like. Henry enjoyed his new power too much. He felt strong when nobody could see him. Power can change people, especially when they are alone. Even a good person like Henry can become different. We must be careful with power because it is dangerous. ★ We should always try to be honest and fair.

THINK What did Henry's teacher give him?

Chapter 14: Power Changes a Person

Henry was a good student who always helped his friends. He shared his pencils and gave good advice. His friends liked him because he was kind and fair. They trusted him with their secrets. One day, Henry became the class monitor. He could make rules for the classroom. At first, he made fair rules that helped everyone. He felt happy to have this new responsibility. However, things slowly began to change. Henry started to enjoy his power too much. He made rules that only helped him and his close friends. He stopped listening to other students' ideas. He became bossy, although he did not notice it himself. His friends felt sad because he was different now. They missed the old Henry who was kind to everyone. Power changed him, especially when nobody was watching. It is important to stay honest even with power. ★ We must remember to be good people always.

THINK What did Henry become?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 15: Nobody Is Watching

Henry was a good student who always helped his friends. He shared his pencils and gave good advice. His friends liked him because he was kind and honest. They trusted him with their secrets. One day, Henry became the class president. He could make new rules for the classroom. At first, he made fair rules that helped everyone. He felt happy when his friends thanked him. However, power started to change him slowly. He began to think only about his own ideas. He stopped listening to other students' opinions. He made rules that were only good for him. His friends felt sad, although they did not say anything. They saw that Henry was different now. He was not the kind boy they knew before. Too much power can change even good people. This is especially true when nobody is watching them. Henry learned this lesson in a difficult way. ★ He lost friends that he really cared about.

THINK What did Henry do as class president?

Chapter 16: The Wise Doctor's Choice

Henry is a student who loves science very much. He builds small machines in his room because he wants to learn new things. Although his parents are sometimes afraid, they support his hobby. Henry reads many books about famous scientists and their discoveries. He dreams about traveling to different countries one day. Science can be beautiful and exciting for young people like him. However, science can also be dangerous if we are not careful. A tool that helps people can hurt them suddenly. We must always think about safety when we do experiments. Henry knows that science needs wisdom and great care. He always wears gloves and glasses to protect his eyes. His teacher says that responsibility is very important for scientists. Henry agrees with this idea completely. He wants to use science to help his family and friends. Science should make life better for everyone in the world. ★

That is why Henry studies hard every single day.

THINK What does Henry build?

Read the story. Then think about each question.

Chapter 17: The Chase

Henry loves science because he wants to help people. He builds small machines in his room. His friends think his work is interesting. They often visit him to see his new projects. Henry believes science can make life better. He wants to travel to many countries one day. He hopes to learn from different cultures. Science is beautiful when it helps others. Henry works carefully on every project. He knows that science can be dangerous too. Although science is powerful, it needs wisdom. A person who uses science must be responsible. Henry always thinks about safety first. He remembers that tools can hurt people. Science needs great care, or it causes problems. Henry shares his ideas with his teacher. They discuss how to use science for good. Henry feels happy when he helps his town. ★ He wants to build a better future for everyone.

THINK What does Henry want to do for people?

Chapter 18: A Lesson in the End

Henry loves science because he wants to help people. He builds small machines in his room. Although his parents worry sometimes, they support his dreams. Henry knows that science needs great care. He reads many books to learn more. Science can be dangerous if we are not careful. Henry thinks about people who use new inventions. They need to understand how things work. Science always needs wisdom and great care. Henry talks to his teacher about his ideas. She says that learning takes time. Henry wants to travel and see new places. He hopes to build something beautiful one day. Science helps us live better lives. But we must think about safety first. Henry remembers this lesson every day. He works slowly and asks for help. His friends like to watch him build. They learn about science together. Henry is happy when he solves problems. ★ Science is a powerful tool for good.

THINK What does Henry believe about science?